EXPERT VERDICT

Astrograph is a rare example of a high-substance, low-fluff spiritual tools site. It operates with the transparency of a SaaS company, providing clear pricing, technical specs, and physical contact details that leave no room for bullshit.

INFO DENSITY

Power-words vs. Substance ratio.

25

83% Reputation

The site exhibits high information density with a low ratio of power words to specific nouns. Headings like Basic Edition, Standard Edition, and System Requirements are purely functional. Body text contains granular technical data including software version 6.6, specific pricing of 79.00 USD, and a physical address in Santa Cruz, CA. There is almost no fluff language used to describe the software's capabilities.

SEMANTIC COHERENCE

Homepage promise vs. Sub-page reality.

19

95% Reputation

There is virtually zero semantic drift between the homepage and sub-pages. The homepage promise of Astrology software, charts, reports is directly fulfilled by the Desktop and Mobile sub-pages which detail specific product editions. The H1 Read Your Horoscope: on the homepage aligns perfectly with the seasonal Gemini New Moon content found in the H4 headings.

TRUST & PROOF

Verifiable evidence vs. Trust Theatre.

14

70% Reputation

DIAGNOSIS: TRUST THEATRE

Minimal trust theatre is detected, though review_count values of 4 to 8 are stated without corresponding proof_links_count to external verification platforms. The site relies on functional proof, such as mentioning GeoTrust for security and Stripe for payment processing, rather than vanity endorsements. The presence of a support phone number and 90-day installation guarantee provides more substance than typical trust badges.

EVIDENCE: PROOF DENSITY

The ratio of verifiable evidence to assertions is high. For every claim of being 'Professional' or 'Accurate,' the site provides a software version number, operating system requirements (Windows, macOS), or a specific price point. External validation is present via social media links (sameAs) and secure transaction partner mentions.

COMMODITY FINGERPRINT

Detection of industry cliches/templates.

11

73% Reputation

The site avoids nearly all industry cliches from the religious dictionary, such as 'spiritual transformation' or 'journey of faith.' It uses standard software industry template language like 'Why you'll love TimePassages' and 'Privacy and Security.' The value proposition is highly unique as a niche software utility rather than a copy-paste spiritual community site.

IDENTITY & AUTHORITY

Expert verifiability & Schema depth.

14

93% Reputation

DIAGNOSIS: AUTHORITY GAPS

Authority is well-established through technical implementation; the site uses comprehensive Organization and SoftwareApplication schema. It provides a verifiable physical footprint at 251 Dufour St. Santa Cruz. A minor gap exists in the absence of Person schema for specific astrologers or developers, but the corporate identity is transparent.

EVIDENCE: PERFORMANCE VS. CLAIMS

Marketing claims such as 'Best interactive point and click interpretations program' are backed by specific feature lists and versioning data. The site demonstrates its performance through technical specifications rather than vague 'life-changing' assertions. The 90-day support guarantee acts as a functional backup to its performance claims.

INDUSTRY MATCH & SCORE SUMMARY

Religion, Spirituality & Faith Organizations Reputation: Astrograph Software, Inc. (astrograph.com)

Reputation: 83 / 100

INDUSTRY CLASSIFICATION

The site fits the Spirituality category through its focus on astrology and horoscopes, though it functions primarily as a technical software vendor rather than a traditional faith organization. The content provides functional tools for the industry rather than generic spiritual messaging.

"The score of 83 is driven primarily by minor Trust and Proof gaps (unverified review counts) and standard Commodity Fingerprint template usage. The site scored near-zero on Semantic Coherence and Authority Gaps due to its highly consistent and transparent technical presentation."
